ECONOMIC COMMENTARY

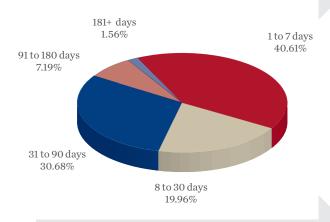

Market review

January was a volatile month, as uncertainty on the pace of the Federal Reserve's (Fed's) monetary policy going forward and escalating political tensions between Ukraine and Russia startled investors. U.S. Treasury yields increased on the back of a more hawkish tone from the Fed and strong employment data for December. US equity markets experienced a substantial selloff with the S&P 500 down as much as -9.2% before ending down -5.2%. The Treasury bill curve ended the month steeper, with the three-month T-bill yield up 15 basis points (bps) to 0.18% and the 12-month T-bill yield up 40 bps to end at 0.77%. The 2-year Treasury yield ended up 45 bps to 1.18%. The release of 4Q2021 real GDP data showed the economy expanded at a 6.9% annual rate in the fourth quarter, above the consensus estimate, reaccelerating from the third quarter slowdown. This brings the 2021 GDP growth rate to a 37-year high of 5.7%. Strength was led by strong consumer spending, non-residential fixed investment, export growth, and strong inventory investment particularly among motor vehicle dealers.

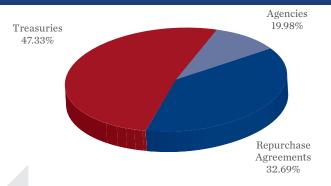

As we entered the year, the negative effects of the Omicron variant became clear as major service sectors were hit. Airline travel and restaurant table reservations were down, and industries across the country suffered from staff shortages due to workers calling in sick. Despite having milder symptoms than previous variants, the recent Omicron wave has inflicted further pain on global supply chains, dampening GDP growth. Most recently, January flash PMIs showed the impact of Omicron on the manufacturing and services sectors, with their respective PMIs falling 2.7 and 2.6 points from December. Inflation pressures continued, with the headline PCE price index rising +5.8% year-on-year (y/y) in December. The core PCE deflator also rose to +4.9% y/y. The December CPI report showed consumer prices rose at their fastest pace in 40 years as vehicle prices, owner's equivalent rate and broad goods prices continued to accelerate. Headline CPI was in line with expectations at +7.0% y/y, while Core CPI rose 5.5% y/y. As 2022 progresses, we should see a significant moderation in inflation as supply chain issues ease, energy prices cool and the reopening categories stabilize. Despite the Omicron surge and related business closures, the U.S. economy saw significant hiring growth in the final months of last year and in January, with surging wages adding further pressure on the Fed to raise interest rates. ECONOMIC COMMENTARY (cont.)

The January employment report came in much better than expected with total nonfarm payrolls increasing by 467K versus 125K expected. December also saw a strong upward revision from 199K to 510K nonfarm payrolls added. Job growth was widespread, with notable gains in leisure and hospitality, professional and business services, retail trade, and transportation and warehousing. Retail and services sectors saw significant job gains despite the end of the holiday season, as employers, wary of labor shortages, may have converted more seasonal workers into full-time employees. The unemployment rate ticked higher to 4.0% while the labor force participation rate jumped to 62.2% from 61.9%. Wage growth was particularly strong for a month where many workers normally see an annual salary bump and may have seen a larger than average gain this year, with average hourly earnings higher 0.7% m/m and a whopping 5.7% higher from a year ago.

The Fed kept rates unchanged at its January Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) meeting with the fed funds target rate at a range of 0.00%-0.25%, a move that was widely anticipated. Given persistent elevated inflation and falling unemployment, the committee now expects it will "soon" be appropriate to raise the fed funds rate, paving the way for the first rate hike at its March meeting. More noteworthy, at the press conference, Chair Powell delivered a more hawkish message than the market anticipated. When asked if the Fed would only hike every other meeting (as occurred in the last hiking cycle that began in 2015), Powell responded that "the economy is now much stronger, the labor market is far stronger, inflation is running well above our 2% target, much higher than it was at that time; and these differences are likely to have important implications for the appropriate pace of policy adjustments." He stressed that the magnitude and pace of rate hikes are still uncertain, leaving the door open for the possibility of faster and larger rate hikes than expected.

On the balance sheet, the Fed seems set to begin reducing its size (quantitative tightening) shortly after raising rates. It appears that all options for tightening monetary policy are on the table. Rampant inflation is behind this dialing up of hawkish rhetoric. The labor market is strong and wages are increasing as the shortage of workers seems like it will persist. Supply chains are still disjointed, adding to inflationary pressures.

Outlook

The economic momentum and Fed policy accommodation of the last year-and-a-half are fading. We continue to believe that underlying economic growth will be strong this year, although Omicron clearly disrupted economic activity at the start of 2022, with both airline traffic and restaurant bookings dipping. We expect improvement in February as the economy moves past the latest pandemic wave; it will still be experiencing a chronic excess demand for labor. This will contribute to continued inflation pressure and likely keep the Fed in a more hawkish stance. It is looking increasing likely that 2022 will see not just the end of Fed bond purchases and increases in short-term interest rates but also the first steps by the Fed to reduce its swollen balance sheet. On fiscal policy, negotiations between the White House and Senator Manchin appear to have stalled. The enhancements to the child tax credit, earning income tax credit and dependent care tax credit have all expired and, even if they are renewed, it is likely to be in a very watered-down form. The Administration would very much like to pass some version of the Build Back Better bill and there continues to be a possibility of higher taxes on corporations and very wealthy individuals. However, major fiscal stimulus has ended.

With the Omicron drag and a sudden cutoff of fiscal stimulus, we expect real economic growth to slow from 6.9% in the fourth quarter to just 2% in the first quarter of 2022 before rebounding to average about 3% over the rest of the year. Growth should be helped by a similar post-Covid recovery in the rest of the world, as well as pent-up demand for consumer goods and strong capital spending. Shelter and wage inflation are showing enough signs of persistence that even after transitory factors fade, it is becoming increasingly clear that inflation will remain far above the Fed's mandate for longer than previously expected, and when it does moderate, it will likely be at levels that remain above 2% on Core PCE. Given the robust inflation and labor market backdrop, we believe the Fed will hike rates five times in 2022 starting in March and should continue hiking rates in 2024. We also expect the Fed to develop a balance sheet normalization plan by midyear and begin the rundown by Q3 at a pace that could shrink the balance sheet through reinvestment caps at a pace of approximately $1 trillion per year.

Overall, investors should be prepared for an active Fed over the next couple of years. While January's FOMC meeting could be viewed as somewhat hawkish, risks to the outlook remain: a more pronounced slowdown in China, escalating geopolitical tensions, and heightened market volatility are likely to keep the Fed flexible in its path towards tighter policy.
